Hollywood's CHARI-TEES

Wearing her own design for Hanes, Sarah Chalke looks prettier than ever in pink. Advocating breast cancer awareness, the brand's Pink Collection of panties, bras, socks and tees culminates in a design-your-own-T-shirt contest. The winner will be announced on December 7, and Hanes will donate $250,000 to Susan G. Komen for the Cure ($5-$14, hanespink.com). And 40 percent of proceeds from Lauren Moshi's pink lips tee — a favorite of stars like Paris Hilton and Kate Hudson — will go to the Breast Cancer Research Foundation ($88, bloomingdales.com).

Survivor's solution

After her own battle with breast cancer, Christina Applegate appreciates the positive philosophy behind Pristine Beauty's natural products. Created out of a need for chemical-free beauty by a young breast cancer survivor, 15 percent of proceeds from the hair and scalp revival serum and healthy deodorant are donated year-round to the Young Survival Coalition and the Cancer Prevention Coalition. $22-$32, amazon.com.

Christie Brinkley and Teri Hatcher use the Pink Creative Vado Pocket Video Cam to capture candid moments in their lives. These memories are made even more meaningful, since 10 percent of proceeds from the pink camcorder will be donated to The Pink Agenda through December. $100, amazon.com.
